Publication Policy

Four times a year, Al Muslim announces the call for papers.

Acknowledgment and Declaration Form: Upon submission of a research paper, authors are required to complete and submit an acknowledgment form if the research is part of a project funded by an agency or if individuals have provided assistance or support. By submitting a manuscript to Al Muslim, authors affirm that the work has not been previously published and is not under consideration for publication elsewhere. Authors must acknowledge this declaration in a prescribed form.

Publication Fee: As per the Publication Policy for Al Muslim, authors are responsible for a partial contribution towards the processing and publishing costs of their article, which is subsidised by the journal. However, guest authors, recognized as scholars of international repute, are exempt from this fee when submitting a research paper. The payment made at any stage is non-refundable if a paper fails the peer review process. Bank account details for payment transactions are provided below for author convenience.

Licensing Policy

All articles accepted for publication by Al Muslim are licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International License.. This means that readers are free to share and adapt the material as long as they provide appropriate credit, do not use it for commercial purposes, and do not impose additional restrictions on its use.

Authors submitting manuscripts to Al Muslim certify that they have the authority to do so on behalf of all contributors and co-authors. They also affirm that:

1. The manuscript is original, unpublished elsewhere, not under consideration by any other journal, and does not infringe on any existing copyrights or third-party rights.

2. They have the full authority to grant publication rights to Al Muslim without breaching any other obligations.

3. The manuscript does not contain any unlawful or libelous content and does not violate any agreements of confidentiality.

4. The authors assure the reliability of the article's content and affirm that all statements and information are factual to the best of their knowledge and comply with scientific standards. They further confirm that any proposed methods or instructions, if followed accurately, will not cause harm or loss to users.

Long-term Preservation Policy

Al Muslim

1. Introduction

Al Muslim is committed to ensuring the long-term preservation and accessibility of its scholarly content. As part of our dedication to maintaining the integrity and availability of academic research, we have implemented a robust preservation policy. This policy outlines the measures taken to archive our digital content, ensuring its longevity and accessibility for future generations of researchers, academics, and practitioners in the field of social sciences.

2. Archiving with Internet Archive

Al Muslim has partnered with the Internet Archive for the preservation of its digital content. The Internet Archive is a renowned non-profit digital library offering free universal access to a wide array of digital resources, including websites, books, and scholarly publications. This partnership ensures that all issues of Al Muslim are securely archived and can be accessed in the long term.

3. Preservation Strategies

To maintain the highest standards of digital preservation, Al Muslim employs the following strategies:

- Regular Archiving: All published content, including articles, editorials, and supplementary materials, is regularly uploaded to the Internet Archive. This ensures that each new issue is promptly preserved.

- Metadata Standards: We adhere to established metadata standards to facilitate accurate indexing and easy retrieval of archived content. This includes comprehensive bibliographic information and digital object identifiers (DOIs) for each article.

- Format Migration: To prevent obsolescence, our digital content is stored in widely accepted and enduring file formats. The Internet Archive employs format migration strategies to adapt to technological advancements and ensure ongoing accessibility.

- Redundancy: Multiple copies of our digital content are stored in geographically dispersed locations through the Internet Archive's distributed infrastructure. This redundancy enhances the security and durability of the archived materials.

4. Accessibility and Use

The archived content of Al Muslim is freely accessible to the public through the Internet Archive's platform. Users can search, view, and download articles without any access restrictions, promoting the dissemination of knowledge and the advancement of social sciences research.

5. Review and Updates

This preservation policy is subject to periodic review and updates to adapt to evolving best practices in digital archiving and preservation. Any significant changes to the policy will be communicated to our authors, readers, and stakeholders.

ALMUSLIIM RESEARCH JOURNAL

plagiarism policy

Al Muslim, under its research mandate, is committed to advancing knowledge while upholding a strict plagiarism policy to ensure the integrity of scholarly work. Al Muslim maintains a stringent stance against plagiarism, emphasizing the importance of originality in all submissions. Authors are required to ensure that their work is entirely their own, and any use of others' work or words is appropriately credited or quoted. To uphold these standards, all manuscripts undergo a thorough examination using Turnitin/Ithenticate software to detect plagiarism. Authors bear the responsibility of ensuring the originality of their submissions and acknowledging the contributions of others through proper citations. Plagiarism, in any form, is considered unethical and is not tolerated. Direct quotations from the author's previous publications or other sources must be clearly marked with quotation marks. In line with established guidelines, manuscripts with a similarity index exceeding 19% may be subject to rejection or conditional acceptance, as determined by the editor. Al Muslim adheres to the Plagiarism Policy outlined by relevant authorities, ensuring the integrity of scholarly publishing.

Review Policy

Publication Process for Al Muslim:

1. Initial Assessment:

Upon submission, all articles undergo thorough evaluation by the Desk Review Committee (DRC). This assessment includes a review of manuscript quality, alignment with the journal's scope, examination of similarity index, and overall article quality. Additionally, the editorial team ensures compliance with copyright requirements, publication consent, and declaration of any necessary publication fees.

2. Internal Review:

Articles recommended by the Desk Review Committee proceed to the next stage, where they are sent to approved reviewers via our Online Journal System (OJS). Al Muslim employs a 'double-blind peer-review' process to ensure the highest quality of research. Each manuscript is reviewed by both national and international reviewers, with suggestions from the national reviewer integrated by the author prior to international review. No institutional reviewers participate in this process.

3. International Review:

Subsequently, manuscripts undergo evaluation by international reviewers who make independent decisions regarding publication suitability. Factors considered include the article's quality, subject matter relevance, scope, as well as the methodologies and research methods employed.

Upon final acceptance by the international reviewer(s) and necessary proofreading by the editor, articles are published both in print and on Al Muslim's online platform.

Policy of Transparency & Best Practices

At Al Muslim, we uphold ethical virtues as paramount in guiding our actions and ensuring the highest standards of integrity. In alignment with the directives of the Higher Education Commission of Pakistan (HEC), we rigorously adhere to ethical guidelines to uphold transparency and professionalism in our publication process.

Ethical Statement

Al Muslim is dedicated to upholding the highest standards of academic rigor and professional conduct. We are committed to institutionalizing and maintaining professional standards in all our publications. Our adherence to the ethical guidelines outlined by the HEC ensures the quality of research and reflects the expertise of both authors and affiliated institutions.

Impartiality:

We maintain impartiality in our editorial process, ensuring the originality of submitted work while encouraging reviewers to address any ethical concerns or potential research misconduct. Al Muslim operates without bias, welcoming complaints regarding misconduct and ensuring they are addressed promptly.

Confidentiality:

Confidentiality is integral to our process. We ensure the anonymity of authors and reviewers during the double-blind peer review process, safeguarding information shared between the editorial team, reviewers, and authors.

Transparency:

In accordance with HEC policies, members of the Editorial Board are prohibited from publishing as principal or co-authors. We uphold transparency in all our processes, fostering trust among our stakeholders and the broader academic community.

Disclosure of Information and Conflict of Interest:

We uphold strict guidelines regarding the use of unpublished material and require written permission from original authors for its use. All information obtained during the peer review process is treated confidentially and cannot be used for personal gain.

Publishing Ethics for Editors

Editors are responsible for ensuring a fair and impartial double-blind review process.
Articles are evaluated based solely on academic merit, including importance, timeliness, relevance, originality, and clarity.
Reviewers are selected based on their expertise relevant to the submitted manuscript.
Editors adhere to legal requirements regarding verification of studies, relevance to scholars, and compliance with copyright laws.
Editors maintain confidentiality regarding submitted articles and refrain from using unpublished material for personal research.

Publishing Ethics for Reviewers

Reviewers notify the publisher if they lack the necessary expertise for evaluation and treat manuscripts as confidential documents.
Reviews are conducted objectively, with reviewers providing articulated views and identifying related publications not cited by the author.
Reviewers' decisions are clearly communicated, indicating acceptance, rejection, or the need for revisions.

Publishing Ethics for Authors

Authors ensure manuscripts undergo peer review and language editing before submission.
Citation styles adhere to the latest APA Guidelines, with a bibliography provided in English.
Authors confirm that manuscripts have not been submitted elsewhere and disclose any conflicts of interest.
Plagiarism is strictly prohibited, with proper citation of external sources according to international standards.
Authors commit to adhering to research ethics standards and providing accurate authorship details.
Manuscripts accepted for review are not submitted elsewhere without rejection by Al Muslim.
Authors grant Al Muslim the right to distribute articles and ensure compliance with journal guidelines before submission.
Authors guarantee the originality of their work and appropriately cite related publications.
Manuscripts exceeding a 19% similarity index, as per HEC guidelines, will be rejected.
